Jing XIA

April 10, 2016

In March, our team successfully submitted two papers.

1 Plans Before September

April There are two more papers to finish in April: the visual analytics survey paper and the NBA paper. I am responsible of the knowledge-related section in the survey paper. I have started reading related materials these days. For the NBA paper, Lao is implementing the system, integrating both player-position data and video data. I will start paper writing next week.

May My plan in May is to draft the patent documents and the software copyright documents for the two projects submitted in March. Meanwhile, I will organize both the codes and the related materials of these two projects. I think the RelationLines project is worth further research.

June I will start and try to finish my PhD dissertation in June. However, the topic is not finalized yet since my paper topics are just too diverse. I would like to make it multi-facet data visualization, which is to visually depict data in multiple perspectives.

July&August I am also applying summer intern these days. Hope I can a position in NetEase or Alibaba.
